Custom homes by Roman Barsky are inspired by the existing homes in the Princeton area.

Charming, classic exteriors give way to modern interiors that are spacious and light-filled.

PRINCETON — Roman Barsky is a master builder who creates homes that look as if they've been there for decades. A true craftsman whose work is inspired by the beauty of existing homes in the Princeton area, Barsky loves the charm of old houses in Princeton.

"This town reminds me of cities in Europe because of the cultural activities and thriving downtown with retail and coffee shops within walking distance," said Barsky. A true custom builder with over a decade of building experience, Barsky builds homes that are distinguished by elegant European taste, unique attention to detail and solid construction.

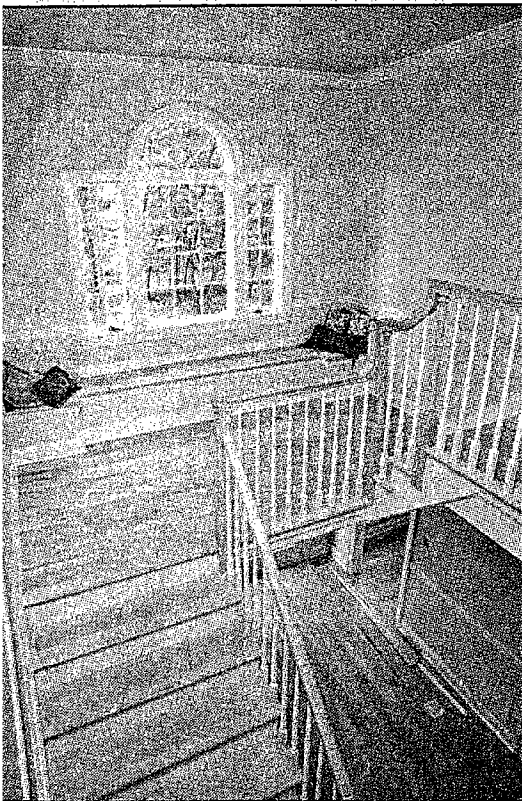

Barsky's personal attention to a house's design can be found on several homes in Princeton, including the ones on Pine Street, Herrontown Road, Moore Street, Harris Road and others. Currently Barsky has three homesites in Princeton ready to be built. In addition, he has built multiple homes in Toms River, East Brunswick, Point Pleasant Beach, South Brunswick, Plainfield and West Windsor.

His current project in the western section of Princeton features five-bedroom, 3½-bath homes with walk-in closets, gourmet kitchens, spacious master suites with soaring volume ceilings, oversized luxurious master baths, elaborate staircases, libraries with hardwood floors, Jacuzzis, three-car garages, majestic fireplaces, wide crown moldings and custom hardwood floors.

"My homes are built so they will blend in with the older homes in the community," said Barsky. "I use traditional features and finishes that lend a classic feel. So, with my homes you get all the understated elegance of an older home with the modern amenities and construction quality of newer homes."

There will be an open house today between 1 and 4 p.m. For more information on these modern yet traditional looking homes built by Roman Barsky, please see the Coldwell Banker Princeton Junction ad in today's Real Estate Marketplace.
